The Riverside Homestead on has a fraction over one hundred and cres of land situated just south of on the east side of the river, the near lary line being about one mile from the ding at East Portland The tract lies ip along the Wallamet river, half a mile and another strip along the Oregon and railroad, half a mile in length, the two ng connected near the middle by two locks (with a street between them,) the ming a figure not unlike the letter H ded into 74 blocks, 200 feet square (with nning at right angles) and 80 fraction long the river front The shares num orth $60 per share It will be seen that his represents nearly a lot with an undi rest in the 80 fractional lots The 80 frac res are to be sold off at the proper time efit of the Association shareholders n for the proceeds in proportion to the f shares held. When all shares are nd the Association shall deter do it, the choice of lots and blocks put up at auction to the highest he proceeds of such sales, after deducting al price of shares or lots, to be divided mong the whole number of shares a person wants a particular lot or block, lling to pay $100 or $200 premium (more the case may be) he pays it and takes block as his individual property, the being divided among the whole number holders It will be seen, therefore, that g is co-operative, and all interests mu man can make a dollar out of it with aking a dollar for every other equal er There is no chance for loss, unless rty, by some chance, should depreciate the first actual cost. Whether this is happen in the case of this particular and must be judged by each for himself, sing the steady and unprecedented ad eal estate in this city and neighbor at East Portland and vicinity, for the two, it seems hardly possible for k.

Belgian Affairs

BRUSSELS Dec 10 —In the Chambers to day Baron Anthan said he was aware of Prussia s note in regard to Luxemburg He denies that the Government was in the least degree influenced by Prussia to reject the petition of French prisoners to return to their country As to the case of Luxemburg, it ought to be a warning to Europe

Bonapartist Schemes.

LONDON, Dec 9 —London clubs are full of rumors to night of the speedy consummation of arrangements for peace and the restoration of the Empire Great significance is attached to the manner in which the Empress has been received by Queen Victoria at Windsor The feeling is strong that victory for France is hopeless under the Republic Private advices from all parts of France indicate a reaction Everywhere the population are in favor of the restoration of the Emperor People are contrasting twenty years of order and prosperity with the present misery and anarchy. The Tours Government has proved incompetent either to conduct the war or negotiate peace. Napoleon refuses to sanction any scheme for his restoration at present saying his part is silent inaction until the Republicans either capitulate or are dispersed

Anti-War Riot in Berlin

BERLIN Dec 9.—There was an anti war riot of a serious character yesterday, caused by resistance to the order drafting married men The landwehr and police were unable to quell the riot and the military were called out They suppressed the disorder, using great severity If the order drafting married men is carried out, it will give an additional force of 250,000 to the army

Defense of Belfort.

MONT BELLIARD, Dec 8 —Belfort is making a splendid defense The Prussians acknowledge that the siege has cost them more than any other during the war

Dispatches from Lille.

LILLE Dec 8 —Abbeyville has not been occupied by the Prussians A squadron of French gunboats have been sent to protect shipping entering the port of St Lazaire at the mouth of the Loire.

LILLE, Dec 8.—Communication with Havre has been restored.

England and the United States

LONDON, Dec 9 —An Imperial Committee has been formed here with Thos Hughes as Chairman, for the purpose of exerting all possible sagacity for the maintenance of peace with America The committee which was formed some time since, considers it expedient to take no public action until the Eastern question is settled The impression is prevalent that the extreme Canadian view of the fishery dispute cannot be sustained The proposal to buy the Alabama claims is regarded as a big job commenced by a clique who have already purchased claims at a small figure, intending to make a hundred per cent They are confident Government would rather have such a large order and make the grievances seem greater

Emperor of Germany.

BERLIN, Dec 9 —The President announced yesterday to the North German Parliament that in a note received from Count Bismarck King William had accepted the title of Emperor of Germany Protocols of treaties with Baden, Hesse, Wurtemburg and Bavaria have been sanctioned

Prussia seeks a Pretext to Despoil Luxemburg.

AMSTERDAM, Dec 9 —A telegram from Luxemburg states that the Prussian Government has informed the Government of the Grand Duke that in consequence of its having allowed a violation of neutrality of the Grand Duchy by the French, Prussia is no longer bound to respect the neutrality of Luxemburg.

London Dispatches.

LONDON, Dec 9.—The report of negotiations for an armistice is incorrect The Foreign Office here denies that there is any movement in that sense on the part of neutral Powers, nor has Gambetta made overtures to Bismarck Some other members of the Tours Government who are violently opposed to Gambetta and anxious to conclude the war, attempted to offer negotiations Discovering their schemes Gambetta threatened them with arrest, when they promised to abandon the undertaking The reported armistice is disbelieved, and is regarded as a stock jobbing rumor. Granville has received no information whatever of the proposed armistice

LONDON, Dec 9 —A dispatch from Gambetta asks Lourier to announce that he had asked an armistice to enable the National Assembly to be elected, and requests that Favre be permitted to leave Paris to consult his colleagues and conduct negotiations He admits that he has lost all hope of prosecuting a successful struggle and has no expectation of defending Tours The army of the Loire has been beaten in detail, and Gambetta declines to recommend a further struggle, or making peace.

A report is current that Jno Bright is to be sent to Washington to negotiate a settlement of the Alabama claims and the fishery question

An appeal is made to the entire people, ignorant and uneducated, to decide whether they should supersede the present cumbersome and inhuman system of government by the establishment of a Republic

BERLIN, Dec 8—The King of Saxony has signified his acceptance of the proposal made by the King of Bavaria, regarding the title of the Emperor of Germany

LONDON, Dec 9 —A frightful explosion of a carding factory took place at Birmingham to-day Seven persons are reported killed and thirty or forty wounded

EASTERN STATES.

BUFFALO Dec 11 —The Fenians have reorganized under the name of the Irish National Brotherhood and say they are prepared to unite with any organization in the country to take advantage of the impending European conflictions, to strike for the freedom of Ireland A committee was appointed to take charge of a large amount of military stores secreted in the city

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 12 —A man whose name is unknown, went to a house of ill fame, No 19 Dupont street, last night having, it is stated, but fifty cents in his possession He was either pushed down stairs by a woman or fell down, breaking his neck or otherwise injuring him so that he never spoke thereafter Two men, belonging to the house, then took him into the back yard where he soon expired The woman, Ann Drury, was arrested by the police and as she was being taken away one of the men called out to her to keep her mouth shut The statements of different parties to the affair differ widely as to the facts

A woman, known as Amelia who was bitten in the hand by Guadaloupe Opelena in a fight some days since, died yesterday in the hospital, of erysipelas and Guadaloupe was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

CURRENT NOTES

Treasurer Spinner makes a statement regarding the economy of our Government that for the last fiscal year, as compared with the one preceding it, the actual saving in public expenses was $222,444 per day

Among the recommendations of the Director of the Philadelphia Mint in his forthcoming annual report is one for an issue of silver coins of the half and quarter denominations, which shall be redeemable when presented in the sum of $10, but which shall be worth about 76 cents on the dollar, the object being to do away with the fractional currency.

Rhode Island, limited as she is in size, possesses the largest room in the world It is 750 feet long, by 70 feet wide The building in which this room is contained is 2,100 feet long by 85, and four stories high, and is intended for a cotton mill One or two more such buildings would cause Rhode Island to disappear from the gaze of men

Dr. Nagle, of New Orleans, who is a scientific expert in cotton, declares that the cotton grown from Alabama seed in Merced county, California, this year, compares favorably with Brazilian and Egyptian cottons and that it is superior to the article grown on the best Southern uplands for spinning purposes. He asserts that the effect of the dry and equable climate of California is an improvement upon the staple yielded from the same seed as planted upon the Southern uplands There are large sections of the State well adapted to cotton culture, and there is no good reason why, at some future time, this interest should not become an important one on the Pacific slope

Ancient Mines Revisited—a Leaf from History

[From the Panama Star and Herald]

By a recent conversation with two Americans, who have been settled for some time back in the little port of Pinas to the southward of the Bay of San Miguel, we are put in possession of certain information With that restless energy so characteristic of the national character in extending their researches back into the interior they came, by a not very difficult road, upon the deserted site of the celebrated mines of Cana These mines, discovered and worked by the Spaniards, have both a mining and historical celebrity The town and mines were attacked and taken in the year 1702 by a band of buccaneers One of the adventurers gave the following account of their exploits to the London Gazette of Feb 8, 1702, which adds "That nine or ten English privateers had attacked the place upon the continent (South America) called Tolu, about ten leagues from Carthagena, which they took, plundered and burnt, and that from thence they sailed to Caledonia rowed up the river of Darien, and ingratiating themselves with the Indians, were by them conducted to the gold mines of Saucta Cruz de Cana near Santa Maria, and after they had marched nine days they fell in with an outguard of the Spaniards, of whom they took nine, but the others escaping, gave notice at the mines of their approach, so that the richest of the inhabitants fled with their money and jewels, that, however, the English took the fort and possessed themselves of the mines where about 70 negroes remained, whom they set to work during the 21 days they were there, in which time they got about 80 pounds weight of gold, besides several pieces of plate, which they found buried in the ground by the inhabitants, and that at their return they burnt the town and brought away the negroes " After this, as we all know, Cana was abandoned and its mines filled by order of the Spanish King, but enough of evidence remains to point out its exact locality. Experienced mineralogists would find a great difficulty in tracing out the rich veins from whose outcropping the Spaniards derived so much gold Our American friends say that at their recent visit to the place, the site of the houses could be pointed out by the grinding-stones used for corn or ore The remains of the fort can yet be traced, but the most curious discovery they made was that the four or five brass cannon still lying there were found from their construction to be breech loaders, they were manufactured in Barcelona, and had the date of 1641 They bore evidences of being intended for use on board of a ship, from which they had been sent for the defense of the place against Indians The locality, though wooded, is cool and healthy, being 3,000 feet above the sea. Random specimens of the ore gave $90 to the ton, and the surface washings could, with improved methods, be made very profitable In the surrounding woods are the remains of ancient plantations of palm, cacao and plantain trees.

The buccaneers, according to ' Davis' Expedition to the Gold Mines of Darien went through the greatest hardship in order to arrive at them from the Atlantic We are indebted to our American friends for the suggestion of an easier approach and a branch of industry for the Isthmus which there is no reason for neglecting any longer

Singular Phenomenon

THREE ACRES OF TIMBER LAND SUDDENLY DISAPPEAR BELOW THE SURFACE

[From the Port Jarvis (N Y) Gazette Nov 24]

The inhabitants of the Basket Station, on the Delaware division of the Erie railway, were treated to a first class sensation About two miles north of the place three acres of land, heavily timbered with hemlock, occupying an elevated position, suddenly sank below the surface, disappearing in a manner similar to a load of dirt when the bottom is let out of the wagon There was no apparent cause, but it certainly has sunk to the depth of about forty feet, leaving the tops of the trees just visible above the surface The sinking was accompanied by a loud crash, which died away in a dull rumble, heard at considerable distance The trees are standing in their natural positions having evidently experienced no particular injury in their descent

It is usual when such freaks of nature occur, for the sunken earth to be immediately submerged by volumes of water, but in this instance no such phenomena attends The soil is of a clayey nature, the sides of the chasm formed by the sinking present a smooth and even appearance as if a huge spade had been thrust down and the earth thrown out

The people at the Basket and from the surrounding country for many miles visited the scene of the phenomenon on Sunday and viewed it with awe and consternation They don t like to be close to where the bottom seems to be dropping out of terrestrial things

SENATOR WILLIAMS —We take the following from the New York Herald's telegraphic report, (Nov 26) from Washington

Senator Williams, of Oregon arrived here this morning Notwithstanding his defeat for re election to the Senate he is in a very hopeful mood, and thinks Oregon will go Republican in 1872 if Grant is re nominated for the Presidency A change of a hundred votes, he says, would have given the Republicans the Legislature and would have secured his re election Senator Williams speaks of his successor Mr Kelly as a very fair man, and one who will make a useful member of the Senate Upon being asked if he expected to be offered a place in the Cabinet, Senator Williams replied that all he knew about it he had gathered from the newspapers He has had no communication with the President on the subject, and no proffer of a place has been made to him He disclaims having any particular ambition for office and says he would prefer to retire to private life and engage in the practice of his profession The Senator reports the material interests of Oregon to be in a very prosperous condition

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

COMPLIMENT TO THE AMERICAN PRESS —The Opinione a semi-official organ of the Florence government on the 25th of October paid a very high compliment to the intelligence and enterprise of the American press, in which respect it places our leading journals far ahead of the leading ones of England and France Here are some passages taken from the Opinione's article on this subject, than which the works of fiction furnish nothing more curious or astonishing, and yet these are facts and not fiction

In this gigantic spirit of literary and business rivalry, the Tribune has so far maintained the first place among all its colleagues Its dispatches for lateness of news, for rapidity of transmission, for accuracy and abundance of information, are something marvelous The battles of Woerth, of Gravelotte, and of Sedan were not solely announced in that journal, but minutely described a few hours after their conclusion and several hours before they were published in London The 4th of September the papers of that metropolis announced the battle of Sedan, and the surrender of the army and of the Emperor of France —the journals of Paris did the same, suppressing by full half the number of prisoners captured

But several hours before, the New York Tribune gave a dispatch of four or five columns in which the event was described by a master ly hand, and with such precision as to satisfy the severest criticism Also, several days before the interview held between M Favre and Count Bismarck that journal published a long dispatch giving the details of a conversation with the latter statesman in regard to the conditions of treating for peace These conditions were identical with those proposed by Bismarck, in his conference with Favre a week afterward There is reason to believe that not a few important pieces of information from Prussian headquarters are only known in France through the agent of the French government in New York who taking them from the Tribune telegraphs them to Paris Marvelous revolution in communications that Paris owes to advices from America its knowledge of events occurring upon French soil And it has them in a moment, as if they came from Lyons or Havre Truly, the miracles of science are more astonishing than those of superstition

Chicago Washington specials say the government is fully determined not to propose new treaties with the hostile Indians of Arizona, but to prosecute the war against them with relentless severity, and troops will be particularly urged to effect the destruction of the most noted and dangerous Apache chiefs.

The Text of Gortchakoff's Reply

A New York Tribune correspondent at St. Petersburg, under date of 2d December, telegraphs the full text of Gortchakoff's reply to Granville, which, however, contains little that has not been touched upon by the regular cable dispatches Russia declined as is already shown, to discuss the propriety of her former note, to recall any precedent, or cite any example, as such a controversy would in no way promote a good understanding, which is desired after the failure of the attempts made at different times to assemble the Powers in a General Conference, with the view to remove the causes of the difficulty which threatens the peace Gortchakoff continues,

" The prolongation of the present crisis and the absence of a regular Government in France postpone still farther the possibility of such an agreement Meanwhile the position in which the treaty left Russia has become more and more intolerable. Earl Granville will agree that Europe of to day is very far from being the Europe [illegible] signed the treaty of 1856 It was [illegible] that Russia should agree to remain the only Power bound indefinitely to an arrangement which, onerous as it was at the time when it was concluded, became daily weaker in its gu[illegible] Our august master has too deep a sense of what he owes to his country to force it to submit any longer to an obligation against which the national sentiment protests We don't admit that the abrogation of a purely theoretical principle, not followed by its immediate application, and which visibly restores to Russia a right of which no great Power could consent to be deprived, ought to be considered as a menace to peace, nor that in avoiding one point of the treaty of 1856, the abrogation of all is implied The Imperial Cabinet never had any such intention On the contrary, our communication of October 19th declared in most explicit terms that His Majesty, the Emperor maintains his adhesion to the general principles of the treaty of 1856, and that he is ready to come to an agreement with the cosignatory Powers of that treaty, either to confirm its general stipulations or to renew them, or to substitute for them any other equitable arrangement which may be thought suitable to assure the repose of the East and the equilibrium of Europe There seems then to be no reason why the Cabinet of London should not, if it [illegible] enter into an explanation with the cosignatories of the treaty of 1856 For our part, we are ready for any deliberation having for its object the settlement of guarantees for the consolidation of peace in the East

The King of Prussia's Speech

At the opening of the North German Parliament at Berlin, on the 24th of November, the King's speech was read by commission, as follows

Honored Gentlemen of the Parliament of the North German Confederation His Majesty the King of Prussia has been pleased to [illegible] me the duty of opening the Parliament [illegible] the North German Confederation in the name of the confederate government It would have given his Majesty great satisfaction to have been present to-day to thank God from this place for the su[illegible] with which the German arms have been favored and to express to you how much the national [illegible] and the unanimity of Parliament in affording the necessary means for carrying on the war, have aided these successes by the [illegible] unprecedented in the military history of the world, which, by God s help, have been gained through the heroic courage and wise leadership of the Germans

The aggression of France [illegible] in July last has been repelled. The [illegible] people must have acquired the conviction that the present power, since the destruction of the armies which were sent into the field against us is not capable of [illegible] the united military forces of Germany. We might, therefore, regard peace as [illegible] Had our unfortunate neighbor a good government the members of which took into consideration their future [illegible] table from [illegible] of their country, such a government [illegible] have seized every opportunity to enable the nation at the head of which it had placed itself by its own act to elect a national [illegible] bly and deliberate upon the pr[illegible] and future of the country. But the [illegible] which will be submitted to you will prove that those who now hold power in France prefer to sacrifice the strength of that noble nation in a hopeless struggle.

The incalculable exhaustion and waste which will result to France from a continuance of the war under the present circumstances must certainly so lessen the power of the country, that its restoration will be slower [illegible] in the ordinary course of war, The governments, however, are compelled, with [illegible] to express the conviction that peace between these two great neighboring people, [illegible] continuance which they calculated [illegible] six months ago will be all the more unguarded by the remembrances which this war will leave in France, when, by the recovery of her own strength, or by alliances with [illegible] Powers, she shall feel herself [illegible] to renew the struggle.

The condition upon which the allied governments would conclude a peace have [illegible] publicly discussed It is necessary that [illegible] should be commensurate with the [illegible] of the sacrifice laid upon our country by this war, which, though undertaken without any reason whatever, was approved by the whole French nation It is above all things necessary they should establish a safe frontier for Germany against a continuance by future rulers of France of conquest.

Intrigues for the Bonapartes

It is very clear that Prussia desires the restoration of Napoleon For while Napoleon is at the head of France France cannot be dangerous to Germany

Cable dispatches state that a reaction in favor of Napoleon is going on in France and that the people are beginning to denounce the chiefs of the Republic as a set of incapables Incapable they may be and doubtless are for they should have seen months ago that to continue the war was madness But the Republic such as it is has shown itself far more capable than the Imperial Government Within a month after the opening of active hostilities the whole of the regular French army was hors de combat and the Emperor was a prisoner The Provisional Government took up the contest at this point and without an army except such an one as could be raised and equipped after the unprecedented losses under the Imperial leaders it has continued that contest with far more credit to France than was acquired under the leadership of the Emperor and his favorites It has not gained victories, but it has not met with such crushing and shameful defeats as the Bonapartists experienced, and it has held the might of Germany at bay for more than three months, while the Empire and all its forces were within one month overthrown The incapacity of the Republic when compared with that of the Empire is therefore not apparent

The King of Prussia is an immovable believer in the divine right and infallibility of Kings A Republic in France might give him trouble at no distant day and shake the foundations of kingly prerogatives. That very thing has happened heretofore and the present King of Prussia is one who experienced it It might happen again, for when the excitement of war is over and the losses and distresses caused by it and resulting from it are felt in full force in Germany, the people may murmur Kings don't like a murmuring people That the King of Prussia is anxious for the restoration of the Emperor, for these and other potent reasons, can hardly be doubted. One of Bismarck's agents employed in the intrigues on behalf of Napoleon, is reported recently to have said "The destinies of Europe, its peace in the future, are still in the hands of his man God only knows what King William would not give to see him again installed in power in the Tuilleries. The very worst prank which he could now play Europe would be by a refusal of the Imperial crown"

Such will be the exhaustion of the French people ere long that they will [illegible] any thing that will give them repose That will be the hour for the restoration of the Empire and the signs indicate that things are tending to that result The King of Prussia is playing for it. The chances are that the Empire will be restored, and that feeble and corrupt Government that plunged France into war, and then betrayed her by its incapacity, will resume its course. Under such imbecility France will never regain her position in Europe

A Proposition for the Citizens of Portland.

Elsewhere we publish a proposition by Mr Holladay to the citizens of Portland, in which he offers, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, to build the west side railroad

The proposition is sufficiently explicit in itself, and we suppose will need no explanation or elaboration to cause it to be understood The situation with respect to the west side road, as now presented, is one which it behooves those who are interested in the future of Portland to consider

It was rumored recently that there might possibly be some obstacle in the way of the consummation of the land grant by the Wallamet Valley Railway Company, which would defeat the transfer and cause the loss of the grant. We learn, however, that it is not anticipated that such loss will occur But the proposition of Mr Holladay makes the validity of the transfer the first condition of his undertaking the work; and this condition, it is to be inferred, is inserted to cover a possible contingency (but one not deemed probable) that the grant may not inure to the benefit of the Wallamet Valley Railway Company

But, on condition that the franchise shall go to that company, the citizens of Portland now have an opportunity, by pledging the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, to secure the road beyond all question It is for those who have an interest in Portland and its future to decide what shall be done The amount of money named is an insignificant sum compared with the advantages which will accrue to Portland from the construction of the road. In making Portland a railway center, in enhancing the value of its property and in building up this city as a central point for trade, without a rival, there will be gains compared with which the outlay of one hundred thousand dollars will be inconsiderable and trifling. It is not necessary to argue this point, for surely there is no one who will raise any question about it

This proposition comes in a shape which should entitle it to the most careful consideration No money is to be paid unless the road is constructed the guarantee of one hundred thousand dollars is to be held good and binding only in case of the completion of the twenty miles within the time indicated So that those who may subscribe to the fund have the best security that could be given They will not subscribe at a hazard. This proceeding, if entered upon, means the construction of a railroad. When twenty miles are completed another twenty and another, will follow as a matter of necessity.

It is possible, nay probable that the citizens of Portland now have an opportunity which, if neglected, will never offer itself again There is wisdom in knowing indeed the highest wisdom consists in knowing how to make use of opportunities The importance of the west side road to this city with the assurance that its terminal depot will be located within the present city limits, must be obvious enough to every one Such an opportunity should not go unconsidered The acceptance of this proposition should not be looked on in the light of a favor to the man who makes it, but as a wise business investment for the citizens of Portland This is all we have to say in introducing the subject for public consideration, though the topic is so important that we may be warranted in recurring to it at another time

A recent cable dispatch gives this The statement respecting the mental alienation of Trochu is corroborated. He said to M Cartier that he "would not survive the fall of Paris only in order to save the capital from its fall, that he had betrayed the imperial government, and that in his last will and testament he had fully stated the means of annihilating the Prussians."

Shipments of bullion from Owyhee continue at the rate of $40 000 per week

They boast that there is but one prisoner in the Boise county Idaho jail But they omit to state that the reason of it is that all the rest a dozen or so in number lately escaped

The grand jury of Owyhee county, whose report is published in the Avalanche found the officers books of that county in good order and correctly kept The total amount of county indebtedness, existing October 10th, 1870 was $43 131 exclusive of interest This is offset by $10 000 delinquent taxes of 1869

The Olympia Tribune of the 9th has the following announcement General Hazard Stevens started this morning for the Cowlitz country on an important mission He has been authorised by the directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad to secure from owners on the line between Pumphrey's and Puget Sound, the right of way for the railroad

We scarce take up an Idaho or Montana paper that does not contain the record of some scene of blood In those Territories human life seems to be little thought of, and the revolver or derringer are resorted to on the slightest difficulty This condition of affairs will continue until the application of the hemp remedy, when after the hanging of a score or two of the desperadoes life will be as safe in Montana or Idaho as anywhere else

A Walla Walla paper has this, which is doubtless true enough of Umatilla county but not of the whole State of Oregon We frequently hear our neighbors of Umatilla county, Oregon complaining of the high rate of taxation in their county, and some of them talk of moving their stock across the line into this Territory and others again contemplate moving themselves in the same direction This is right neighbors it is better to live in a Republican Territory than in a Democratic State

The Corinne Reporter has this We spent a delightful hour this morning with Father Mesplie, who honored us with a call Father Mesplie is in charge of the diocese including Montana and Idaho, and has been on the coast and in the mountains since the year 1845 Early in that year he landed on the spot where the city of Portland now stands, where then there was one house Since then he has labored unceasingly among the posts, settlements and Indian tribes of the northern territories Until his arrival here he had not seen a railroad for twenty five years excepting the short tracks at the Cascades and Dalles During all this period he has kept a full journal, which will at no distant day be a rich treasure to the local antiquary, besides having an inexhaustible fund of local reminiscences of personal experience.

From the Owyhee Avalanche Last week Golden Chariot stock was dealt in to a considerable extent, and at improved figures It opened at $62 in the San Francisco Stock Exchange on Saturday last, advanced to $68, receded to $66½ and finally closed firm at $70½ The November account of bullion receipts up to that date aggregated $34,624 86 The mine looks better than ever At the bottom of the sixth level, between the south winze and the shaft, the vein is nowhere less than three feet wide. The ore from the fifth level is now being hoisted through the Elmore shaft The machinery for the new hoisting works arrived this week It is very powerful and of the most approved pattern. Both the Owyhee and Ida Elmore mills are now kept busy crushing Chariot ore. Under the administration of Superintendent Cassel the Chariot is proving an immense success

The State of the Sick Man

[From the New York Times

Whatever may be the result of the present difficulty between Russia and England it is clear that before the advances of a vigorous organizing Empire like the Russian, a feeble and disorganizing rival, like Turkey must yield It is impossible for England to interpose forever between the two The point must be reached when her interests will not support the strain and then Turkey must yield to civilization

English writers and statesmen too often insist on representing Turkey as progressive and Russia as a barbarous or effete Power The capacity for development of the Ottoman is the burden of most English commentaries on the Eastern question and a species of morbid sentiment has been created in favor of the fungoid civilization of the dying Empire

Turkey is Constantinople, even more fully than Paris France In that city a wise and experienced statesman Ali Pasha—assisted by two or three able subordinates of his own race educated in European capitals and a number of European assistants, who under a service more or less efficient are dearly paid—holds head against the internal attacks of Ottoman barbarism as well as the external menaces of the diplomacy of Europe and manages to impress the Western average mind that Constantinople is a charming place in spite of everything and the Turks really a most tolerant and amiable race Yet before the American war there were streets in Pera, even where a Christian could not go save at the risk of his life and at this day there is not a Pashalik where the forms of law are respected an instant longer than it pleases the Pasha to follow them The innate bias of the Mussulman against education by letters is as great as in any Roman Catholic country at any time within the past century and his unconquerable aversion to a Christian cannot be unknown even to those who have seen only Stamboul Even where the same race embraces both religions the distinction between the Christian and his compatriot Mussulman is too striking to leave room for question In the Christian portion there will be the greatest eagerness to attend schools and the utmost indifference to them in the Mohammedan It is an indisputable fact that the vis inertia of the Mohammedan element of Turkey is against all advance in civilization and to such a degree that no force but conquest can overcome it If Stamboul could move, it would only be the motion of the head without the body

More than this, the innovations on the Moslem law have sadly demoralized the faithful It is not at all uncommon to hear even the common soldiers say that now that the law is broken by the Padischah the end has come The last concessions extorted by the Cretan insurrection in favor of the Christians, the Sultan's visit to Paris &c, were received by the army in Crete as the sign of that long ago-foretold expulsion of their empire from Europe, which forms the subject of an universal credence among Mussulmen, and produced an immediate and remarkable demoralization

The army, nominally four hundred thousand, strong, is composed of excellent material, but with the worst conceivable discipline and officering The best officers are European adventurers the most capable of whom now in high command is probably the conqueror of Crete, Mehmet Ali Pasha "the Prussian" The commander of the marine forces, Admiral Hobart Pasha is a man of little real ability, but of much foolhardiness, and not favorably known in the English service, which he left for that of the Turks, either for character or capacity His Captains are a stolid apathetic set, the crews are without discipline, and, for economy's sake, are never exercised in the use of their guns During the Cretan insurrection there was only one instance of a Turkish man-of war attacking seriously a Greek blockade-runner, and she was very near being captured, owing her safety to the approach of an iron-clad consort

As to finances, all the world knows that between bad systems of collection and corrupt disbursement there is no reliance to be put on the Moliah in times of pressure If Russian finances are weak, Turkish are rotten

But an element more favorable to Russia in certain emergencies is the Pro Russian party in the Capital itself, including many of the most obstinate and influential of the Mussulman magnates—a party always respectable, and much increased of late by the able diplomacy of the Russian Ambassador The personal influence and administrative ability of Ali Pasha alone have kept the Russian party from power in several crises, and when he dies or is disgraced, it will be difficult to find a head who will keep the Empire in even its present relations with the Western Powers If left to themselves, there is little doubt that the majority of the Beys and ultra-Turkish Pashas would prefer an easy yielding to the tutelage of Russia with a guarantee of personal privileges and tranquility to a perpetual struggle, of which they see the inevitable result It would not be at all surprising if the problem were to be settled in this way The permanence of the present state of things at Stamboul may depend on the life of Ali Pasha or a whim of the Sultan

Proposition to Build the West Side Railroad

PORTLAND, Oregon, Dec 12, 1870

To the citizens of Portland —I earnestly desire to commence the construction of a 'West Side Railroad,' provided I can effect such arrangements with the creditors of the O C R R Co (West Side) as will place me in possession of the road bed, and enable me to proceed with the enterprise without embarrassment

I find, upon investigation of the affairs of the Company referred to, that it will require about one hundred thousand dollars to cancel its bonded and floating debt

I therefore make the following proposal to the citizens of Portland

I will, within the time limited by Act of Congress passed A D 1870, granting lands to aid in construction of the West Side Road, under the organization known as 'The Willamette Railway Company' cause to be built and equipped twenty miles of the West Side Railroad establishing its terminal depot within the present limits of this city, upon the following conditions

1st That the franchise granted by the Act of Congress referred to shall inure to the benefit of the said Willamette Railway Company

2d That the citizens of the city of Portland shall guarantee the payment to me of one hundred thousand dollars in gold coin when the said twenty miles shall have been completed, this guaranty to be given within sixty days from this date

W B Carter, late of the Corvallis Gazette, started by yesterday's steamer for the Eastern States, to be absent two months

Judge Kelsay has been confined to his bed at home in Corvallis, for several days, by a serious attack of hemorrhage of the bowels

Among the mails of the steamer Calabria arriving at New York were some two thousand balloon letters from beleagured Paris They are extremely light, being written on paper furnished by the government, and excited considerable curiosity The mails via sky leave daily and carry from 28 000 to 30 000 letters Even in the event of their capture the packages marked America are forwarded from Bremen and Hamburg via England

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The steamers Vancouver and Carrie, both bound up, collided at the mouth of the Wallamet yesterday morning, but without serious damage to either boat.

The Railroad ferry boat was out Sunday afternoon for a trial, and worked very satisfactorily.

Phil Saunders who was legislated out of the office of Marshal, has gone into the saloon business on Alder street, between Front and First, and says he wouldn't trade back for boot.

The Railroad company has got out an Express wagon, for use in this city, which is a little the gayest vehicle "afloat" in these parts.

The Bates' Dramatic Company tender a complimentary benefit to the Washington Guard to take place Wednesday evening.

The Bixleys, Melville, Tony Ward and others of the late Bird Troupe, were reported at Olympia last Thursday night where they played to a full house.

Railroad Statistics.—The editor of the Bulletin having had access to the report of Mr Thielsen, Chief Engineer and General Superintendent of the Oregon and California Railroad, collates from it the following statistics:

"The road is completed for a distance of eighty miles from the East Portland terminus. The track is graded and nearly all the bridging and trestle work ready for another section of twenty miles, or a total of one hundred miles. Since last June there has been built about six miles of bridges and trestle work, in the construction of which there has been used six millions feet of timber, over one hundred and seventy two tons of wrought iron, and one hundred and sixty-four tons of cast iron. The ties for the last eighty miles of the road measure a total of over seven million feet—the greater portion of which has been sawed at the company's mills, and forwarded to the front without accident. Details of material are thus stated:

There is a total length of Howe's patent truss bridging of 1,020 feet, over the Molalla, Pudding and Santiam rivers. In these bridges are 522,252 feet of timber, 136,116 pounds of wrought iron, and 105 321 pounds of cast iron.

The total trestle work is 27,490 feet, in which were used 4,800,533 feet of timber, 183,344 pounds of wrought iron, and 193,800 pounds of cast iron.

The total drain work is 2,639 feet, in which were used 433,173 feet of timber, 34,767 pounds of wrought iron, and 24,145 pounds of cast iron.

In highway bridges there was a total used of 9,944 feet of timber, in road coping, a total of 35,260 feet of timber, and in cattle guards, 190,000 feet of timber.

There is of rolling stock—7 locomotives, 1 President's coach, 6 passenger coaches, 2 baggage and mail cars, 30 box and freight cars, and 20 more on the way, 86 flat and open cars, and 16 more on the way, 2 stock cars, 20 hand cars, and 2 boarding cars. All this rolling stock is new and of the best quality.

There is now on hand or on the way sufficient iron to lay the track to the one hundred mile station.

We present these statistics to enable readers to form an idea of the magnitude of the work and of the immense expense which attends the construction, the equipment and the running of rail roads. Of course, in addition to the cost of all this material and rolling stock, there is the cost of the track making, the iron rails, bolts, fish bars, spikes, and other things, the building of depots, turn tables, machine shops, engine and car houses, side tracks, switch stations and water tanks, the putting up of huge saw mills. Then there is the large corps of civil engineers and assistants, the chief and staff of Superintendents, of depot attaches and employees, of engineers and firemen, conductors, brakemen, switch tenders and others. Also, the cost of putting up a line of telegraph along the road, and the corps of operators to attend at all the stations. And, besides all that we have enumerated, there are the many and various contingents which daily swell the great aggregate of expense, and which cannot be well described."

The latest cause for divorce is consumption. A woman recently applied for a divorce in Louisville, Kentucky, and being asked on what grounds she sought it, replied "Well, you see, when I married Tim he was a healthy man, able to support me and the childer, that came in good time, but the last eighteen months he has done sorry a thing—nothing but gruntin' and complainin' about misery in his chest, until I'm sick of it. I support the childer, and he does nothing but ate and ate, with an appetite like an ox. They do say he's got the consumption, but I can't help it. I can't support him and the childer too, and I want a divorce, so that the public can take care of him." Her prayer was not heard.

Bottle factories in France will do a good business after the war is over, as the valiant warriors of King William never save the bottles of the wine they consume, and they generally take all the wine that is handy. When the bottle is emptied, its unavoidable fate is to be shattered on the next stone. An angry French correspondent says the track of the modern "Vandals" is not only marked by smoking ruins, but also by an unbroken train of broken bottles.

What is there nicer for a Christmas present than a beautiful Silver Napkin Ring, for every time the receiver sits at the table it is a pleasant reminder of the kind donor. At E. L. Stone's you will find plenty of them of solid silver which he will sell at a small advance above cost. If you do not wish a napkin ring you will find something that will please you.

Why is it that Holm & Fishel keep the largest supply of Clothing in this city?
Because their sales require it.
Why can they afford to sell cheaper than any other house?
Because they buy in large quantities and get them cheaper, and because they are satisfied with small profits and quick returns, which system has brought them an enormous trade and made them first in their business in the city.

December is here, with her storms and her rain,
And it makes the folks of cold weather complain.
Hark ye dear gentlemen this need not be so
You can all be kept warm for O NEIL & CO
Can fit you so nicely, so snug and so warm,
With CLOTHES that are proof 'gainst the bitterest storm
And they sell them so cheaply, that all who go there,
Unlike Flora McFlimsey can find something to wear.

The Three Dyspeptics.—Here is an extract from a letter received by Messrs Drake & Co Nov 2 1869. "Three friends met one day in the latter part of last September in the rotunda of the Astor House. Your correspondent was one of the three. We were all suffering from the national disease' indigestion and all agreed on one point, viz that nothing agreed with us. We discussed medicines. One had tried blue pills, another extract of dandelion, another almost every variety of purgatives. In fact we had made apothecaries shops of our insides but nothing had done us any good. I said I wondered if your Plantation Bitters would help us any. After some talk we concluded to try it and meet again at the same place that day month to compare notes. We did so. It was a jovial meeting I can tell you. We scarcely knew one another. Each had gained flesh, each reported a good appetite, sound sleep, an easy stomach and a regular habit of body. The change was marvellous. It was agreed to report the facts to you and I was appointed to make this communication. You can publish it if you choose, and refer all skeptics for particulars to "Yours truly, ALBERT W SHAW,
"549 Downing street, New York."

"Having been made acquainted with the composition of the preparation known as Sozodont I have for some time past permitted its use in my family, where it has given entire satisfaction. It is an elegant toilet article, well worthy of the encomiums it has received.

PETER COOPER AND COOPER INSTITUTE.

At the head of the famous street called the Bowery, in the City of New York, stands the lofty edifice of brown stone, which is known throughout the country as Cooper Institute. There is a little park in front of it; and, standing unconnected with other buildings, at the point where the Bowery divides into two avenues, it makes a noble termination to the broadest and not least imposing of our streets. The ground floor of the building is occupied by showy stores, and the second story by the offices of various public institutions, the rents of which, amounting to about $35,000 a year, compose the fund which supports the institution.

Underground is a vast cavern-like lecture-room, in which political meetings are held, and where courses of popular lectures are delivered upon art and science. In the third story there is an extensive reading-room, furnished with long tables and newspaper stands, wherein the visitor has his choice of about three hundred journals and periodicals from all parts of the world.

The room is not much frequented in the daytime, but in the evening every seat is filled, and every stand is occupied by persons, well dressed, and polite indeed, who observe the strictest order, and yet have evidently labored all day as clerks, mechanics, or apprentices. Several ladies are generally present, reading the magazines; for the apartment is free to all of every age, sex, condition, and color, provided only that they are cleanly dressed and wellbehaved. On a platform at one end of the room a young lad sits, the librarian, who exercises all the authority that is ever needed. The most perfect order prevails at all times, and no sound is heard except the rustling of leaves. In all the city of New York a more pleasing spectacle cannot be found than is exhibited in this spacious, lofty, and brilliantly-lighted room, with its long tables bordered on both sides by silent readers, presided over by a lady quietly plying her crotchet needle.

If you ascend to the stories above, you behold scenes less picturesque, but not less interesting. The upper stories are divided into class-rooms and lecture-rooms. In one you [illegible] fifty or sixty lads and lasses listening [illegible] upon chemistry, illustrated by experiments. In another, a similar class is witnessing an exposition of the electric telegraph. [illegible] another apartment there will be a hundred pupils seated at long tables, drawing from objects or copies; and in another, a smaller class [illegible] drawing a statue or a living [illegible] in the center of the room. [illegible] would appear to be a favorite branch with the frequenters of this establishment, many of whom are engaged in [illegible] business which drawing facilitates. Young machinists and engineers, carpenters and masons, who hope one day to be [illegible] and architects; young cabinet-makers, upholsterers and house painters, [illegible] aspire to exercise the higher grade of [illegible] are here in great numbers in [illegible] rooms devoted to drawing and [illegible]. There are classes, also [illegible] pupils [illegible] both boys and girls, learn to model [illegible] several of whom have produced creditable works.

In the daytime [illegible] of these upper class-rooms [illegible] empty, but [illegible] after seven in the [illegible] of young people begin to ascend [illegible] the stairs, [illegible] with eager young life. [illegible] half past [illegible] work begins, and after that [illegible] is admitted. The classes continue an hour or two hours, according to the nature of the subject or exercise. By half past nine the rooms are again silent and deserted. The reading-room closes at ten; the lights are extinguished and Cooper Institute has discharged its beneficent office for one day more.

[illegible] this is [illegible] every one on two simple conditions: first, that the applicant knows how to read, write and cipher; and secondly, that he desires to increase his knowledge. Of course every one must observe the ordinary rules of decorum, but this is so uniformly done by the pupils that it scarcely requires mention.

Such is the Cooper Institute. This is that evening school which Peter Cooper resolved to found as long ago as 1820, when he was a [illegible] looking about New York for a place where he could get instruction in the evening but was unable to find it. Through all his career as a cabinet-maker, grocer, manufacturer of glue, and iron founder, he never lost sight of this object. If he had a fortunate year or made a successful speculation he was gratified not that it increased his wealth, but because it brought him that much nearer to the realization of his dream.

When he first conceived the idea there were no public schools in the city and such a thing as an evening school had not been thought of. His first intention therefore was to establish an evening school such as he had needed himself, when he was an apprentice boy, where boys and young men could improve themselves in the ordinary branches of education. But by the time that he was ready to begin to build there were free evening schools in every ward of the city. His first plan was then laid aside and he determined to found something which should impart a knowledge of the arts and sciences involved in the usual trades, so that every apprentice could become acquainted with the mechanical or chemical principles which his trade [illegible] to apply.—James Parton in the [illegible]

[illegible] in the military service of [illegible] the steam [illegible] which the steam [illegible] proposed to the English Government [illegible] Bessemer, whose name is so well known in connection with the manufacture of steel. Mr. Bessemer is of the opinion that the same principle whereby water is thrown from an engine can be applied in the case of bullets [illegible]. His idea is that instead of water the engine shall throw a shower of bullets [illegible] steam engine can throw 151 lbs., representing 2,340 Enfield rifle bullets, to a vertical height of one mile every minute, with an expenditure of about five pounds of coal and three gallons of water. Mr. Bessemer [illegible] that, under proper arrangement, bullets can be propelled through the air at a rate of [illegible] a minute, with a velocity of 400 per second. Should this plan prove successful a new and formidable weapon will [illegible] added to the present deadly list of [illegible]—so much so, in fact, that [illegible] mitrailleurs and other ferocious [illegible] in a military campaign in the future will become the beau ideal of the [illegible] soldier's fancy, something which will [illegible] short sharp and decisive.

[illegible] says: "I suspect that most of [illegible] eaten of late is horse; anyhow I [illegible] like ordinary beef. To obtain a [illegible] almost impossible. In the first [illegible] is difficult to purchase it; in the second [illegible] when bought it is spotted by patriots [illegible] through the street, it is seized upon the [illegible] and the [illegible] who can obtain a joint for [illegible] must be an aristocrat who is getting more than his share. I met a lady this morning who used to be most fashionable. She was walking along with a parasol under her shawl, and six dogs following her. She asked me to drive them away, but they declined to go. I could not understand their sudden affection for my fair friend, until she confided to me that she had two pounds of mutton in her parasol."

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure them at the least expense without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves, [illegible] of the heart, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

LAND DEPARTMENT
OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22, 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminus with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.

PETER COOPER AND COOPER INSTITUTE.

At the head of the famous street called the Bowery, in the City of New York, stands the lofty edifice of brown stone, which is known throughout the country as Cooper Institute. There is a little park in front of it; and, standing unconnected with other buildings, at the point where the Bowery divides into two avenues, it makes a noble termination to the broadest and not least imposing of our streets. The ground floor of the building is occupied by showy stores, and the second story by the offices of various public institutions, the rents of which, amounting to about $35,000 a year, compose the fund which supports the institution.

Underground is a vast cavern-like lecture-room, in which political meetings are held, and where courses of popular lectures are delivered upon art and science. In the third story there is an extensive reading-room, furnished with long tables and newspaper stands, wherein the visitor has his choice of about three hundred journals and periodicals from all parts of the world.

The room is not much frequented in the daytime, but in the evening every seat is filled, and every stand is occupied by persons, well dressed, and polite indeed, who observe the strictest order, and yet have evidently labored all day as clerks, mechanics, or apprentices. Several ladies are generally present, reading the magazines; for the apartment is free to all of every age, sex, condition, and color, provided only that they are cleanly dressed and well behaved. On a platform at one end of the room a young lad sits, the librarian, who exercises all the authority that is ever needed. The most perfect order prevails at all times, and no sound is heard except the rustling of leaves. In all the city of New York a more pleasing spectacle cannot be found than is exhibited in this spacious, lofty, and brilliantly-lighted room, with its long tables bordered on both sides by silent readers, presided over by a lady quietly plying her crotchet needle.

If you ascend to the stories above, you behold scenes less picturesque, but not less interesting. The upper stories are divided into class-rooms and lecture-rooms. In one you may see fifty or sixty lads and lasses listening to a lecture upon chemistry, illustrated by experiments. In another, a similar class is witnessing an exposition of the electric telegraph. In another apartment there will be a hundred pupils seated at long tables, drawing from objects or copies; and in another, a smaller class is drawing a statue or a living [illegible] placed in the center of the room. [illegible], indeed, would appear to be a favorite branch with the frequenters of this establishment, [illegible] of whom are engaged in [illegible] business which drawing fa[illegible] [illegible] machinists and engineers, [illegible] carpenters and masons, who hope one [illegible] and architects; young cab[illegible] upholsterers and house painters, [illegible] exercise the higher grades of [illegible], are here in great numbers in [illegible] various rooms devoted to drawing and [illegible]. There are classes also, the pupils [illegible] which, both boys and girls, learn to model [illegible], several of whom have produced cred[illegible] works.

[illegible] the [illegible] of these upper class-[illegible] empty, but, soon after seven in the [illegible] of young people begin to [illegible] along the street, ascend the stairs, [illegible] fill the building with eager young life, [illegible] work begins, and after that [illegible] admitted. The classes continue an hour or two hours, according to the [illegible] of the subject or exercise. By half [illegible] the rooms are again silent and deserted. The reading room closes at ten; the [illegible] are extinguished, and Cooper Institute [illegible] discharged its beneficent office for one [illegible] more.

[illegible] is free to every one on two simple conditions: first, that the applicant knows how to read, write and cipher; and, secondly, that he desires to increase his knowledge. Of [illegible] every one must observe the ordinary [illegible] of decorum; but this is so uniformly [illegible] by the pupils that it scarcely requires mention.

Such is the Cooper Institute. This is that [illegible] which Peter Cooper resolved [illegible] as long ago as 1810, when he was a [illegible] apprentice looking about New [illegible] for a place where he could get instruction in the evening, but was unable to find it. [illegible] through all his career—a cabinet-maker, grocer, manufacturer of glue, and iron founder—he never lost sight of this object. If he [illegible] a fortunate year or made a successful [illegible] he was gratified not that it increased his wealth, but because it brought him so much nearer to the realization of his [illegible].

When he first conceived the idea there were no public schools in the city, and such a thing as an evening school had not been thought of. His first intention, therefore, was to establish an evening school such as he had needed himself, when he was an apprentice boy, where boys and young men could improve themselves in the ordinary branches of education. But by the time that he was ready to begin to [illegible] there were free evening schools in every ward of the city. His first plan was [illegible] laid aside and he determined to [illegible] something which should impart a knowledge of the arts and sciences involved [illegible] the manufactures; so that every apprentice could become acquainted with the mechanical or chemical principles which his trade required him to apply.—James Parton in the Ledger.

[illegible] to the military service of [illegible] system upon which the steam [illegible] has been proposed to the [illegible] by Henri Bessemor, whose name is well known in connection with the manufacture of steel. Mr. Bessemer [illegible] of the opinion that the same principle [illegible] water is thrown from an engine can [illegible] applied in the case of shot of a suffi[illegible]. His idea is that instead of [illegible] the engine shall throw a shower of bullets. [illegible] fire engine can throw 181 lbs., representing 2,540 Enfield rifle bullets, to a vertical height of one mile every minute, with a consumption of about five pounds of coal and three gallons of water. Mr. Bessemer assumes that, under proper arrangement, bullets can be propelled through the air at the rate of 1,000 a minute, with a velocity of 1,500 per second. Should this plan prove successful a new and formidable weapon will have been added to the present deadly list of destructive engines—so much so, in fact, that what with mitrailleurs and other ferocious contrivances, a military campaign in the future will become the beau ideal of the amateur soldier's fancy, something which will really be short, sharp and decisive.

A Paris letter says: "I suspect that most of the beef I have eaten of late is horse; anyhow it does not taste like ordinary beef. To obtain a joint of mutton is almost impossible. In the first place it is difficult to purchase it; in the second place, when bought, it is spotted by patriots going through the street, it is seized upon the ground that any one who can obtain a joint for love or money must be an aristocrat who is getting more than his share. I met a lady this morning who used to be most fashionable. She was walking along with a parasol under her shawl, and six dogs following her. She asked me to drive them away, but they declined to go. I could not understand their sudden affection for my fair friend, until she confided to me that she had two pounds of mutton in her parasol."

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness:

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of affecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

LAND DEPARTMENT OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22, 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands coterminous with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect. I. R. MOORES,
